HEIR TO IMMENSE ESTATE

Miss Minnie June Boggs Finds of Her Good Luck.

LAND IN CITY OF BALTIMORE

Had Been Leased for Ninety-Nine Years and Now is to Become Property of Heir of Sir Cecil Calvert.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Three billions of dollars is a large sum of money, but it represents the value of an estate which will fall to the heirs of Sir Cecil Calvert and one of them is Miss Minnie June Boggs of Lincoln.

The estate is situated in the very heart of the city of Baltimore, Maryland, and represents an estate which was originally owned by Sir George Calvert, the original Lord Baltimore of England. There is considerable interesting history connected with the estate and the manner in which it was tied up so that the sons of Sir Cecil could not obtain possession of it. It is said that Sir Cecil became offended with his two sons who took opposite sides in one of the great problems which beset the English government at that time and as a punishment to them leased the tract of land which was a part of the land grant of what was formerly called Maryland, for a period of ninety-nine years. Upon this tract of land has grown up the city of Baltimore and in its very center is situated the very tract of land which for many years has been in litigation.

Employed at Lincoln. But to return to the little woman who some day is liable to receive a share of this mammoth estate. Miss Boggs is at present employed as a stenographer at the headquarters of the democratic state committee in Lincoln. She is a sociable girl, weighing about a hundred pounds and has a winning smile and personality which has won her a large circle of acquaintances in the few months she has resided in the capital city. She is an excellent musician and vocalist, a most graceful dancer and is at present employed evenings at the Lincoln dancing academy, one of the leading places of that kind in the city. Her services are in great demand and she has been obliged to give private lessons to some of Lincoln's most select young women.

Miss Boggs was born in Omaha—well, not so many years ago, and has resided there nearly all the time since, until she came to Lincoln. Her mother, Mrs. Nancy Matthews, lives in Wyoming, and it is through her that she derives her right to participation in the Baltimore estate. The interest of the heirs is being looked after by Mrs. A. Calvert Bugeeise of St. Louis, who is an expert genealogist and it is mainly through her efforts that the estate has been saved to the heirs. She is a direct descendant of Lord's Calvert and has prepared the history of the heirs very carefully to the present time.

GI BALTAZ, Spain, Oct. 31.—The Italian steamer Regina D' Italia and San Giovanna were seized by the British navy as prizes owing to the fact that part of their cargoes consisted of war material. It is stated. The vessels will be held pending a decision of a prize court.

The Regina D' Italia and the San Giovanna were bound from American ports to Italy with cargoes of copper. Their seizure by the British brought a protest to the State department at Washington on October 29 from representatives of four copper companies in New York. No official information of the seizure had been received by the State department at that time.

GEORGE SURE OF VICTORY

Republican Chairman Thinks the Whole Ticket Will Carry.

NEBRASKA SAFE FOR PARTY

Will Issue Final Statement of Campaign, in Which He Will Quote Figures in Support of Claims.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—In a statement issued today "Uncle Walt" George, chairman of the republican state committee, issues a statement in which he states that he believes the whole republican state ticket will be elected. He draws attention to past history and feels that the state will be safely republican when he votes are counted next week. Tomorrow he will issue his final statement of the campaign, in which he will quote some figures, which he hopes the election will prove him a prophet. The statement today is as follows:

"Nebraska is a republican state. It is one of the states in this union in which the democrats have never elected their state ticket. The democratic politicians through all these past years have sought the party's nominations. They have smiled optimistically in each campaign. They have talked hopefully to each other and to the people. They have worked with more or less energy and enthusiasm in each state contest. They have pleaded with the voters to give them a trial at the state government. But they have never gained the confidence of the voters enough to carry a single state election in all these forty-seven years of the state's history. They have been able a few times in all these forty-seven years to set one man elected now and then, but always that one man, after trial, has been repudiated by the voters and dismissed with a single term.

First by Fraud.

"Governor Blyd was the first democrat to get an election certificate, but it was conceded then and is yet that his pretended election was a fraud. They stuffed the ballot box with 4,000 votes that were never polled. They counted old honest John Powers out and called it a democratic victory, for the one man, the first one-term, Boyd. They elected Shallenberger, their second one-term victory, and then repudiated him at the next state primary because he signed the 8 o'clock closing law. The third and last democrat elected to a state office, John H. Morehead, is now pleading for that which he pledged himself never to take, a second term, and his backers profess to believe in his election, in spite of all this past history. In spite of the fact that he is now more discredited by the voters than was either of the other two democratic governors, and in spite of the further fact that his party in this state is now more fundamentally divided than ever before in all these forty-seven years.

"Shallenberger and Morehead, each in his turn, leaned on Mr. Bryan for the last hard pull, leaned on him and pleaded with him for his endorsement, while all the time each of them was a part of the conspiracy that has at last left him no control of the party in this state and no function as a Nebraska democrat except as they can use him to beg the people for an endorsement of his enemies. One word now from Mr. Bryan of his honest conviction as to the Morehead combination would make the chances of the governor's re-election as absolutely hopeless as those of Maupin, Pool, and the rest of their state ticket."

Americans Lose Out On Large Order for the English Army

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The failure of American manufacturers to take advantage of the war situation has already caused them the loss of large orders. The other week the war department searched London for agents of American mills to supply 500,000 pairs of blankets to Lord Kitchener's new army. No agents were found and the orders went to British mills, which were unable to give guarantees as to when the order would be fulfilled.

Not only the British government, but also the French and Russian are now calling wildly for supplies of all kinds, camp equipment and accoutrements. But the Americans, by what is considered here a surprising lack of enterprise, have not been on hand. It is not a question of seeking business, but of having it thrust at them.

There is likely to be a continuous demand for blankets, olive drab uniform cloth, which is now manufactured for the American army, canvas, cooking utensils, army shoes and materials which the United States has never heretofore exported to England.

General trade opportunities are also offered to America, since England, Germany and France have largely supplied Spain and Italy and the lesser countries of Europe, to say nothing of the trade with Africa, the orient and South America.

Tapestry Saved from Cathedral of Rheims

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Forty-two pieces of tapestry of great value were saved from the Rheims cathedral, including seventeen pieces representing the history of Christ, by Daniel Peppcock, a gift from Henri de Lorraine, who was archbishop of Rheims from 1659 to 1841, and seventeen pieces representing the life of the Holy Virgin, given in 1630 by Robert de Lenoncourt, archbishop of Rheims. There were among them also two pieces, considered the best produced by the Gobelin manufactory, representing the Acts of the Apostles.

GERMAN FAMILY HAS NINE SONS IN THE BIG WAR

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The Tagblatt publishes this "ray-side picture" from a correspondent in France:

"At a far advanced railroad guard-far away from their German homes—1 met members of the landsturm who hailed from Trier. Bearded, sun-burned faces, with blue, friendly eyes. There was one Peter Bush, son of the old Bush in Fleringen. He has five sons in the field. Near him stood one Lambert. He was younger still, for he has six sons at the front. But what is that against Dominicus Elsen in Wittlich, who has nine sons fighting and a tenth about to enter? Is the country not happy when such hearts beat?"
